PROCEDURES:

- A. Travel permits are a tool to assist the Probation and Parole Officer in monitoring the location and activities of offenders under supervision and to aid the offender in successful completion of the period of supervision. All requests for travel permits should be reviewed and thoroughly investigated by the issuing Probation and Parole Officer.
  1. Legitimate reasons for travel permits include employment, family emergencies and activities that will support the offender's rehabilitative efforts. In deciding whether or not to grant or deny permission to travel, the supervising officer should take into consideration the offender's actual need to travel and the amount of time realistically required. The officer should also consider the offender's record of compliance. Travel should not interfere unnecessarily with other obligations. The possibility of risk to the community should also be examined. If there appears to be a reason why offender travel would present an unacceptable risk or an unreasonable barrier to compliance, the officer would deny or restrict travel accordingly.
- B. In instances in which an offender is requesting a travel permit to a district where a past victim of the offender resides, the receiving district supervisor will be advised. Should potential problems exist; the offender will not be issued a travel permit.
- C. In no instances shall Probation and Parole Officers issue a travel permit to a certain location if there is a parole or probation condition forbidding such travel. The Parole Board or sentencing court must approve, in writing, any travel in which the Parole Board or sentencing court has made restrictions. Requests will be made to the Parole Board or sentencing court in writing with the District Supervisor's approval.
- D. Interstate travel permits for work purposes may be issued for periods not to exceed 30 days and may be reissued by the issuing Probation and Parole Officer at expiration. Should special circumstances exist, the Probation and Parole Officer may require the offender to report in person to the Probation and Parole Officer in the receiving district.
- E. For purposes of NCIC, written travel permits will be issued except for minimum offender.
- F. Special Management Supervision-intensive supervision offenders, community corrections offenders and sex offenders.

1. Written travel permits are mandatory for interstate travel for all offenders assigned to special management programs.
2. Travel permits for offenders in special management programs will be issued only for the following reasons:
  - a. Work Purposes: Offenders in special management programs may be allowed to work outside of the county in which he/she is being supervised only if it does not interfere with his or her reporting requirements (all contact requirements will be met) and the supervising officer feels it poses no additional threat to public safety. A travel permit may be issued by the supervising Probation and Parole Officer. The travel permit may be issued at most on a weekly basis to allow the offender to work within a 70-mile radius. There will be no overnight permits allowed for work purposes. Offenders must return to their approved residence after work each day. Unless there are extenuating circumstances, requiring district supervisor approval documented in CMIS.
  - b. Emergency Purposes: Offenders in special management programs may be allowed overnight travel to another county within New Mexico for emergency purposes only requiring district supervisor approval documented in CMIS.
  - c. After the emergency situation has been verified by the supervising Probation and Parole Officer and the supervising Probation and Parole Officer deems that there is no immediate threat to the safety of the community, the emergency travel permit will be referred to the District Supervisor for his/her approval. The District Supervisor may sign the travel permit or give verbal permission by phone to the supervising Probation and Parole Officer who will note the approval by indicating the date and time it was approved on the travel permit. Unless there are extenuating circumstances, requiring district supervisor approval documented in CMIS.
3. Travel permits for offenders in Community Corrections Programs, ISP, and SOU will be issued as follows:
